Each team consists of an experienced team leader, a driver, a data collector, and a prayer warrior. Also, a one-time training is needed before participating in an outreach event. Methodism 201

Monday, March 23

6 to 7:30 p.m. | Evans Hall

Back by popular demand! Following the success of Methodism 101, this next-level class digs deeper into the heart of Wesleyan theology—exploring what makes our movement distinct, dynamic, and deeply rooted in grace. We'll look beyond the "how we got here" to the "why we are who we are," tracing John Wesley's enduring vision of faith that engages both head and heart, unites personal holiness and social witness, and calls us to live as a people formed by grace for the sake of the world. Whether you're a lifelong Methodist or simply curious about what makes this tradition tick, you'll find lively conversation, accessible theology, and plenty of "Aha!" moments. And of course, in true Methodist fashion, dinner will be served—because "table fellowship" is part of our theology, too. Register for event, dinner and childcare online.

Wednesdays, April 15, 22 & 29

6 p.m. | Grace Chapel

Parenting has never been easy, but raising faith-filled kids in today's world can feel downright daunting. Between busy schedules, social pressures, and a culture that often says, "you deserve it," many families are searching for ways to nurture humility, gratitude, and grace at home. Homegrown: Raising Faithful Kids in an Entitled World is a practical and hope-filled Bible study designed to help parents cultivate the kind of faith that takes root and lasts. Across three sessions, Drs. John McKellar and Todd Renner will explore what Scripture says about shaping character, stewarding influence, and planting seeds of faith in everyday life. Join us as we reclaim what matters most and grow families rooted in faith, humility, and joy. Because faith that's homegrown doesn't just survive the world—it transforms it!
